Glaeser takes command at Walla Walla District, USACE

Walla Walla, Wash, -- Lt. Col. Randy L. Glaeser assumed command of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Walla Walla District, in a ceremony held in Walla Walla today.

Brig. Gen. William T. Grisoli, Northwestern Division Commander, officiated as Lt. Col. Edward J. Kertis Jr. transferred command to Glaeser. Kertis served as the commander for the past two years.

Glaeser holds a Bachelor of Science degree in aerospace engineering and a master's degree in civil engineering. He has served in active duty engineering units in the U.S. and Germany, and with the Corps' St. Paul District. He deployed to Bosnia with the Corps in 1996 as part of the Base Camp Coordination Agency. For the past two years, Glaeser served as professor of military science at the University of Missouri-Rolla and managed the Army ROTC program.

Glaeser hails from Oshkosh, Wis., and enjoys hunting and fishing.
